

Lynn Andrews' Directory of Ministers

Patti Taksa

Transformative Leadership, Executive and Personal Coaching,
Strategic Storytelling and Poetry

Seattle, Washington

eMail: pattitaksa0262@msn.com

My Sacred Work is transforming lives and transforming business. We live in a world that has become so fast-paced and stressful, that we barely have time for our spouses, families and friends let alone community or volunteer efforts. We often feel like a rat in a maze or a hamster on a spinning wheel going nowhere in a hurry. My spiritual practice includes working with individuals and businesses to stop this madness.

It is possible to infuse the workplace with Spiritual awareness, to merge Heart and Mind, and to balance profitability with higher values and vision. My work focuses on helping organizations and individuals design and implement healthy environments where communication, teamwork, respect and results benefit everyone including employees, customers, and resource providers.

For thousands of years humankind has learned to understand the nature of the world through the mediums of storytelling and poetry. Storytelling is more than a useful skill; it is a primary way we learn and how we connect with others. Poetry reminds us that we are whole human beings who possess both intellect and passion. Storytelling and poetry are powerful tools for helping individuals and organizations move through change.

Credentials

More than 20 years of experience working with senior executives in business

M.A. Organizational Psychology, Antioch University Seattle (2005)

B.A. Humanities, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida

Continuing Education Coordinator, Lynn Andrews Center for Sacred Arts and Training

Ordained Minister, Spiritual Healer and Earth Steward

Reiki Master, Usui method of natural healing

Feature writer for professional journals on topics of leadership, human resources, and other management topics