Holiday Season Greetings!

My dear apprentices and wonderful friends,

Thank you all so much for being in my life. We have studied together for so long in one aspect or another of sacred paths, and we are becoming the wisdom keepers.

Think of your awareness as an intelligent being of light in this glorious globe of creation, this earthly life. Think of what it takes for the sun to produce such exquisite light every morning of your life. Think of your own galaxy of creation; if you are lonely, it is because you have forgotten that you have a true home in the Pleiades and that this life is a manifestation of your own special, magnificent sacred dream. The Pleiades welcomes you.

I speak so often about the great dreamer awakening. This may be the last holiday season where you still have that great creator god in assistance. We are creating our own dreams and we must take responsibility for that. There is no blame. There is only forgiveness.

Imagine yourself sitting in a circle, all of us together -- the Sisterhood, everyone in your consciousness, all of us together in a great circle. Imagine at the center of this circle is the mind of your internal galaxy. I want you to meditate with that great mind. Talk with it. Ask it questions. Ask it to teach you from the great libraries of consciousness that are now available to you. Remember that a holiday that is celebrated anywhere in the world is a celebration of that great central soul of creation.

Imagine what it takes for that soul, that spirit, that creative mind of the universe, to put out the energy for your holidays and your celebrations. This is a sacred time of year, a time when we reach our hands across the walls of our personal barriers and we accept, we love, we rejoice in the gifts from the conscious universe. We are receiving the gifts of light, of life, of relativity that give us the great teacher, the act of power.

Celebrate who you are. Remember who you are as you sit in this great circle. You are surrounded by love and those who care. But for that care to come to you, you have to give care and love. Don't forget who you are. Remember the god and goddess beings that you have become and reach out your hands to each other. See the images in the center of this circle, the images of your confusion, your polarities, your discontent. See them melt away into the sea of consciousness, where in fact we are each becoming all one.

This is a time of joy. Wherever you live in the world, whatever your celebrations are, celebrate from the deepest part of your being. Remember to give with all that you have. Give the love. Give the understanding and the communication and the sweetness of your spirit, as the Great Spirit returns all that you are.

With love and light, and blessings for the holiday season,

Lynn and the Sisterhood
