Teaching

Dear Friends,

In my work with Grandmother (The Woman of Wyrdd), I was introduced to an ancient oracle. These were magnificent cards of wisdom used by European shamans and magicians throughout history to empower their apprentices with higher consciousness, in order to divine their own truth and power. For behind all the chaos of our lives, a chaos that seems to have been the human condition for as long as words have had memory, there has always existed one simple truth...

No one can give you power. You must take your own power.

“The truth is within your own heart and soul, “Grandmother said gently. “When you become lonely, and you become afraid, my sister, all the answers you will ever need will be found within yourself. Do not look so frantically out into the world for the answers to your questions. Look within and ask yourself, ‘Am I being faithful to my own truth?’ Losing that faith is the only real sin against the Goddess Mother. We forget who we are in this world of illusion. And it is the one thing that we must forgive and cure. The Old One will survive in all of her women.”

Grandmother called these cards, simply the Power Deck. They impart an earth-based wisdom that is intended to inspire and support the power that resides within us, drawing us back into harmony within ourselves that we can then manifest out into the world.

Power Deck Card #44 - Witness

Live in your sacred witness. That inner place of silence and observing is your true identity and therefore your true power. It is all you really have when all else is gone. Like monoliths in an ancient valley, they observe and remember the passage of the ages. The answers that you find, through the timelessness of spirituality and the innocence of nature, offer the infinite. Each human being is on his or her own path, each different than yours. Answers to your questions are rarely found in another human. Answer your own questions by reflecting on nature and conversing with your own sacred witness.

Councils Corner

Eastern Sierra Council of the Clan of the Whistling Elk Solstice Ceremony, Independence CA...Written by Rev.
Leslie Willhite

Eastern Sierra council members or 21st century “women who know things” travel from near and far to celebrations, ceremonies, and gatherings to share the teachings of the Sisterhood of the Shields. As in every group of people, one traditionally marches to the beat of their own drum, and arrives in accordance to the speed of that drum. Being one of those typical people, this “one” took full advantage of time ticking off at tortoise speed and with the help of the Sisterhood moved through time and space at the speed of a racehorse, and arrived earlier than expected.

Council Coordinator, Rev. Dianne Riesen, always finds wonderful sites for council ceremonies and meetings, and the Solstice ceremonial site located on high ground on the east side of Independence, CA proved to be one of the best.

The site was indeed a perfect spot to view the setting sun, the ceremonial circle marked with rocks and crystals for the directions, and the spiraling raked center held a pole for prayer ribbons. Even though this June day had been one of the hottest this year, the temperature had dipped well below the 102 degree high for the day at the designated gathering time.

A slight breeze blowing along the desert floor combined with the drifting thunder people above helped to enhance the ceremony. Council members, Dianne Riesen, Sue Sos, and Leslie Willhite held the points of a triangle for the ceremony. Dianne opened the ceremony with prayer and invited the spirits of the four directions to join the circle, each of whom appropriately arrived in a gust of wind from each direction. The gathered members drummed, rattled, passed a talking stick, shared personal and spiritual events, and then prayerfully added a ribbon representing either intent or prayers for a specific person, place, or community, to the center pole. Sue led the group in song, and provided the very delicious evening meal. Leslie closed the ceremony with prayer.
